Abstract

Welcome, published in deuterium's blog.

Welcome to my personal blog about cybersecurity and computers in general where I host cool challenges (aka assignments) too I find it fun to explore and push things to their limits, maybe there would be this kind of stuff in here.

General topics of interests include Cryptography, SAT/SMT solving, Reverse Engineering, Binary Exploitation, Python and miscellaneous Cybersecurity stuff.

Head out to different pages to find the things of your interest, you may find something new or a challenging problem 😊

What if you get stuck?

Always feel free to DM(direct message) on discord, Username: deuterium#1689. Or any other convenient medium of choice.

Not even on getting stuck, if you solve a challenge, you can brag about it or discuss the way you solved it!
